New Charter Fight Warms As Election Day Nears; Four Debates on Tuesday

Advocates and Opponents of Proposed New Charter
See Victory Possible
at Polls.

With only one week left before the election of Atlanta will be asked to decide whether it will adopt a proposed city manager charter for Atlanta or retain the present system of government, two and anti-charter forces Tuesday night prepared to strengthen their respective positions in anticipation of a week of hard campaigning.

Citizens of Atlanta will vote on the new scheme of government May 25, the same time as the city primary, and Tuesday night present charter advocates claimed victory, while those supporting the new charter declared their proposal "has a good chance of winning."

Speakers pro and con spoke from four stumps in the city Tuesday night.

"Bartering" System.
Attacking the present system of government as inefficient, extravagant, a bartering system, where improvements are swapped by smooth politicians, Edgar Neely, prominent Atlanta attorney, Tuesday night declared that the city is now getting only about 90 cents in value from each dollar of revenue collected.

He was supported in this argument by Mrs. R. K. Evans, who stated that she had been informed by a well-known business man, whose name she did not give, that Atlantans are getting only 25 cents out of every dollar the city government spends.

Courtland S. Winn, assistant city attorney and former mayor of Atlanta, spoke against the proposed charter, declaring that every vestige of democracy and representative government will be wiped out and a despotic, highly centralized government set up in its stead if the proposed charter is adopted.

"Too Radical."
"This charter is a school system proposition from beginning to end," Mr. Winn said. "I love schools, I served on the school board, and I believe that one of the principal duties of government is to train youth, but this charter is too radical. It turns the finances, lock, stock and barrel over to the school department."

"Schools of Atlanta are now under a city manager in the form of the citizens' committee appointed to administer school funds," Mr. Winn said. "There must be some ulterior motive in so many politicians rushing to the defense of the present charter."

"I am no politician and seek no political office," Mrs. Evans said. "I am merely trying to do what I believe to be the best for Atlanta."

Councilman Horace Russell, leader of pro-charter forces; Judge E. C.

Kontz, head of the anti-charter group; James L. Mayson, city attorney, and other speakers debated the question at Gordon street school, at Kirkwood school, and at a fifth ward rally Tuesday night.

COL. LUKE LEA HEADS COMMERCIAL APPEAL

Memphis, Tenn., May 17.—(AP)—Colonel Luke Lea, of Nashville, publisher of The Nashville Tennessean, was elected president of The Memphis Commercial Appeal, Inc., here today at a meeting of the board of directors. The Memphis Commercial Appeal, Inc., is a new firm which succeeded the Commercial Publishing company as publishers and owners of The Memphis Commercial Appeal and Evening Appeal. For a transfer of the properties exclusive of real estate, took place to the new firm.

Colonel Lea succeeds Lovick P. Miles as president of the publishing company, a position he had filled since the death of C. P. J. Moore. Mr. Miles retired from active participation in the management of The Commercial Appeal, Inc., but will remain a member of the board of directors.

Captain Thomas Fauntleroy, who was assistant managing editor under Mr. Moore and Mr. Miles, was appointed by Colonel Lea as managing editor of The Commercial Appeal.

George Morris, who was elected vice president of The Memphis Commercial Appeal, Inc., also was named to remain as managing editor of The Evening Appeal.

Mr. Miles plans to take an extended rest before again becoming affiliated with the law firm of Miles, Waring & Walker, which he left to assume the managerial duties of the company at the death of Mr. Moore.

The entire stock and all properties of the Commercial Publishing company, exclusive of real estate, were purchased by Colonel Lea and his associates at a price of more than $3,000,000.

The board of directors elected today is composed of the following: Colonel Luke Lea, Rogers Caldwell, Captain Enoch Brown, W. E. Norville, all of Nashville; John M. Brennan, Chicago and Nashville; Lovick P. Miles, Captain G. T. Fitzhugh, Paul Dillard, Hardwig Peres, B. L. Mallory, George Morris and Thomas Fauntleroy, all of Memphis.

Mayor Entertains Viaduct Conferees at Luncheon

Bond commission, city, railroad and power company officials, who Tuesday attended a meeting at which drawings for the proposed Pryor street and Central avenue viaducts were discussed are shown in the above picture. The picture was made at a luncheon at the Atlanta Athletic club which followed the conference. Mayor I. N. Ragsdale was host. Those seated, left to right, are S. P. Young, assistant chief engineer of the A. & W. P. and Georgia railroads; Hunter McDonald, chief engineer of the N. C. & St. L. railroad; S. B. Slack, engineer representing the state highway commission; J. H. Johnston, engineer of the public service commission. Standing, left to right, Wylie Moore, chairman of the conference Tuesday; C. E. Kaufmann, city bridge engineer; William B. Hartfield, chairman of the bridge committee of city council; J. B. Maddock, engineer of the Central of Georgia road; Mayor Ragsdale; Frank Neely, chairman of the Atlanta bond commission; William A. Hansell, chief of construction of the city of Atlanta; Walter F. Schulz, of Memphis, architect of the viaduct plans; C. H. Johnson, engineer of the N. C. & St. L. road; J. N. Vorhees, engineer of the Georgia Power company; C. C. Whitaker, engineer representing the city and the Atlanta bond commission, and J. Lawrence McCord, member of the bond body.

MYSTERY SHROUDS DEATH OF COUPLE

was manager, asserted that Miss Pike, a temperamental and neurotic woman of mystery, had an unrequited infatuation for her employer.

Davis explained that his office wished to make certain whether there was any possibility that the case was one of double murder by outside influences or whether it was simply the murder and suicide of unrequited love which the police suspect.

Strange Notes Found.
Complicating the situation are notes found in Miss Pike's room. One of them addressed to "Aunt Catherine" read:

"I don't know whether idle threats mean anything or not but if so my life isn't worth a song from now on. Hence this note in case anything happens to me—Margie."

The theory upon which the district attorney's office ordered the investigation is that Powell had a disaffection connection with the private office of Loch, Walker and Loch, attorneys for E. C. Lewis, until recently president of the Julian Petroleum corporation, in the same building as the discount corporation. Powell is suspected of having had a vacant room fitted up for the receiving end of the instrument where Miss Pike took down in shorthand what came in over the instrument.

Hides in the room, a "cloak" of confidential information and other undisclosed evidence were said by Davis to support his theory.

Do Not Credit Report.
Powell's attorney said officials of the discount corporation placed no credence in the theory of Davis. He said that Powell once had negotiated a loan for Julian Petroleum and received a commission, but had no further connection with the company. He denied that Powell once had managed a Julian pool.

Howard J. Schoder, president of the discount corporation, told police officers that because of the infatuation of Miss Pike for her 41-year-old employer, she twice had been discharged, being rehired the first time because of her entreaties.

Last week when she was discharged for the second time, she was promised an additional month's pay. Powell volunteered to carry it to her last night when she failed to appear at the office for it.

A telegram signed "Ellen" found in Powell's pocket, was explained as from his cousin en route here from New York.

Open Lowry Hall At Oglethorpe Next Saturday

BY HELEN AND OLIVE PARISH.

Lowry hall, the newest building of Oglethorpe university, will be open to the public this Saturday. The building, a gift of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Lowry, is to be the school of banking and commerce, under the direction of Dr. Arthur S. Lilly.

It is an exact replica of Corpus Christi college at Oxford, the alma mater of James Edward Oglethorpe. The hall is built in collegiate Gothic style. One side is temporarily unfinished, so that the building may be enlarged with the increase of the commerce school enrollment.

At present the building has five entrances. The main door, of bronze and leaded glass, was made at a cost of $2,200. The entire building is worth $250,000. Above the back door is an unusual curved window with an elaborate niche on each side. All of the choirs have inscriptions that were written on the campus. Above the front door hangs a coat of arms and a lantern, carefully copied after those at Corpus Christi.

MEMPHIS CHOSEN CONVENTION CITY OF SOCIAL WORK

Des Moines, Iowa, May 17.—(AP)—"Much for care, more for cure and most for prevention."

This is the slogan of the national conference of social work, selected today by Sherman Kingsley, of Philadelphia, new president of the organization.

Memphis, Tenn., was selected for the 1928 meeting.

COOLIDGE PASTOR SUED FOR LIBEL

Washington, May 17.—(AP)—The Rev. Dr. Jason Noble Pierce, widely known as pastor of the First Congregational church which is attended by President and Mrs. Coolidge, has become the defendant in a $50,000 libel suit growing out of letters written to the shipping board about Howard T. Cole, an engineer of the board.

Cole's attorneys have filed a complaint with the District of Columbia supreme court, attaching to it copies of two letters they said Dr. Pierce had sent to Brigadier General A. C. Daiton, in charge of the board's ship operations, demanding that Cole be dismissed, and containing charges reflecting on Cole's private life.

The attorneys characterized those assertions as false and malicious, and designed to blast his reputation. Dr. Pierce has retained Frank J. Hogan, who successfully defended E. L. Doherty and Albert B. Fall in the Elk Hills oil reserve case, as his counsel. Mr. Hogan has declared he advised Dr. Pierce that his actions were "entirely in line with his duties as a pastor."

CLINE IS GUARDED IN SHOOTING DEATH

Willimantic, Conn., May 17.—(AP)—State police have been ordered under no circumstances to let Leonard Cline, playwright and novelist, whose friend, Wilfred Irwin, of New York City, died last night from a wound received at Cline's Mansfield farm yesterday, out of their sight. This order followed the discovery of a noose in Cline's home which the Willimantic county investigator believes may have been prepared by Cline with suicidal intent.

Cline today was recovering from a blood transfusion, performed in an attempt to save "his life, for which he gave a pint of blood."

No formal charge has been placed against him pending a coroner's hearing to be held later in the day.

An autopsy showed that the wound that resulted in Irwin's death had been caused by a choke bore shotgun, between 60 and 80 slugs lodging in the right side. The shooting, Cline said, was accidental.

George J. Irwin, Wilfred's brother, who is a professor at Washington and Lee university at Lexington, Va., came here during the night to claim the body. It will be sent to Lexington, where Irwin lived until about two years ago.

Police have been unable to locate Irwin's wife, who was a weekend visitor at the Cline home. Cline's wife has not been at Mansfield for some time.

remonstrating with him for being in Mrs. Raymond's company. Wagner testified that Miss Mackaye, Helen Wilkinson, Kelly and himself had two or three drinks each before Kelly left his apartment to beat up Raymond.

Perry Ashom, a friend of Raymond, told of seeing Raymond after the beating and said the actor was sober. Raymond's mouth was bleeding and one eye was closed, he said.

Dr. W. P. Sullivan, Hollywood physician, who attended Raymond the day after he was beaten up in the Raymond home by Kelly, followed Miss Mackaye to the stand.

The physician and Raymond's widow face trial on a charge of having attempted to cover up facts surrounding Raymond's death following the first fight with Kelly.

Dr. Sullivan was questioned in detail as to the physical condition of Raymond at the time he entered the case and after the unconscious man was examined at the hospital.

Max Wagner, Kelly's roommate, was a prosecution witness. He detailed to the jury the story Kelly told him of having beaten Raymond because Raymond used vile language in

BRITAIN IS WARNED BY SOVIET RUSSIA

Moscow, Russia, May 17.—(P)—The Soviet government, in a note delivered tonight to the British charge d'affaires, in protest against the recent raid on the Soviet house in London declares that continuation of commercial relations with Great Britain is possible only on the condition of exact fulfillment of the provisions of the commercial treaty of 1921 free from violations growing out of interparty maneuvers and the fantastic beliefs of one minister or another. It demands from the British government definite reassurances on this subject, from which it says "necessary conclusions can be made."

Furthermore, the Soviet government declares that it reserves the right to make claim for violation by the British government of the agreement, for the insult offered thereby and for material losses growing out of the raid.

Definite Economic Plan.
The note points out that Soviet interior development is based on a definite economic plan and foreign trade relations and, accordingly, this plan cannot be allowed to be jeopardized by British domestic political considerations.

The Soviet government continues the note, "has observed with satisfaction the interest in the Soviet economic organization has been shown and more trusted by the London banks, in proof of which an agreement was signed a few days ago between the Soviet and one of these banks for 10,000,000 pounds sterling."

Campaign of Hostility.
"But a campaign of unrelenting hostility, which reached its culmination in the raid on the Soviet delegation, induces the Soviet government, with all the seriousness and frankness which the grave situation demands, to lay down before the British government the question: Is it willing further to maintain and develop Anglo-Soviet relations, or is it its intention to oppose this in the future?"

The principle of immunity of trade delegations and representatives of the Soviet union has been recognized by nearly all the countries with which Sovietia has treaty relations. No objections were raised against this principle by the British government, in the person of Sir Robert Horne, then British president of the board of trade who in 1917 negotiated with the late Genoa Krusen.

FORMER SAILOR BURIED IN GULF OFF MOBILE, ALA.

Mobile, May 17.—(P)—The body of Thomas Jeffries, 72, a retired member of the United States navy, will be taken to the Gulf of Mexico today by a firm of morticians of this city and buried in the sea ten miles off the Mobile bar. Jeffries died in Mobile last Saturday after a residence here for 12 years during which time he gave out little information regarding himself other than he had been a member of the United States navy. Before the body was committed to the deep Rev. W. E. Lockler, of the First Baptist church, this city, conducted the burial service of that faith for the deceased. Jeffries left no known relatives.

Measuring roofs by a "year-stick"

The sky-line of a busy world—a world of industries housed in modern structures that are protected by Barrett Specification Roofs.

THERE'S only one way to measure roof value—that's by the "year-stick." The really important question is: "Which roof will last longest with the least trouble and expense for upkeep?"

In all our long experience as roofers, we've never run into anything that equals the Barrett Specification Roof. Many roofs of this type built 40 or more years ago are still in A-1 condition.

Three Atlantans Among Initiates Into Emory ODK

Atlanta had three of a group of ten men elected to the Mu circle of Omicron Delta Kappa, for leadership at Emory University, Clifford Hendrix, Glenn Rainey and Claude Frederick, Jr., all graduates from Atlanta high schools, and now students at Emory, were among those honored. The students were Francis W. Carpenter, Nelson, Ga.; George Patterson, Tallahassee, Ala.; William Blacklock, Valdosta, Ga.; Roy L. Gardner, Edgar, P. James, Albany, Ga.; Milton Stockman, Nashville, Tenn.; and Wallace Alston, Decatur, Ga. Professor J. B. Peoples was elected from the faculty and Professor J. G. Stine from the alumni.

The annual "tapping" service was held at Emory Tuesday with James H. Tierrell, a senior member of the circle, presiding. He presented each of the neophytes with a laurel leaf, symbol of their election to O. D. K. He announced that the initiation would be held Saturday night with a formal banquet at the Georgian Terrace.

Dr. Theodore H. Jack, dean of the graduate school and a member of O. D. K., spoke at the initiation service to the whole student body. He outlined the purpose of the organization in a concise address.

Omicron Delta Kappa is the national honorary fraternity for the recognition of all-round leadership in university activities. It was begun at Washington and Lee university in 1914. Now many universities have chapters of the fraternity. The student bodies of those schools have overwhelmingly voted Omicron Delta Kappa the highest honor possible to obtain.

ALLEGED DRUNKEN AUTOIST IS HELD AS BOY IS STRUCK

Edward Babbs, 8, of Pryor road, was knocked down and injured on Lakewood road near the Fulton school early Tuesday afternoon by an automobile driven by D. H. Sturry, according to police reports.

Sturry was arrested by county policemen and placed in the Fulton county tower on a charge of operating a car while under the influence of liquor. His bond was set at $1,000.

The child was taken to Grady hospital, where doctors stated that he was not badly injured. He had a severe wound on his head and numerous other wounds about the body. Only meager details of how the little boy was injured were given hospital attaches.

Miss Lucile Allen, of 91 East Cain street, was taken to Grady hospital early Tuesday morning in a serious condition after a collision at West Hunter and Ashby streets, according to hospital reports.

Miss Allen was riding in an automobile driven by Private Clayton, of Fort McPherson. Private R. C. Hambrick, of Fort McPherson, also in the car, received minor cuts and bruises. The car crashed into a parked automobile with no rear light, according to information given police.

MANN ACT VIOLATION LAID TO TWO YOUTHS

Preliminary hearing for William Price and John T. Thompson, accused of violation of the Mann act, was set for Tuesday by Judge S. C. Commissioner David Meyerholdt for May 24. The two men are alleged to have brought two girls from South Carolina to Georgia. Both the defendants and witnesses were lodged in Fulton tower Tuesday to await hearing. They were arrested at Clarkston by Officer C. E. Walden.

COST OF PRISONERS $216.95 PER PERSON

The per capita cost of maintaining an average of 508 Georgia prisoners during 1926 was $216.95, an audit of the state prison commission completed Tuesday by Sam J. State, state auditor, showed.

Products of the state prison farm at Milledgeville during the year sold for $75,610.22, while the total operating cost of the farm was $147,180.59, the audit showed. Mr. State said a subsequent audit would show disbursements for permanent improvements on the prison system.

Another audit, on the department of public welfare, showed disbursements during 1926 of $34,490.01. In addition to the department of $25,000, numerous donations were received by the department, including one for $1,500 from the commission on industrial arts and crafts and a donation of $2,037 to match an offer of J. Rosenwald, of Chicago, for a study of methods of negro improvement.

YAARAB'S CHANTERS PLAN LONG JAUNT

Singled out as one of the best singing organizations in the country, after an inspection by Imperial Yachting Club, the Yaarab temple's imperial chanters have been booked for 11 formal appearances at the Atlantic City during the week of the imperial coronation, June 12 to 17. It has been announced here.

Frank A. Cundell, director and president of the organization, returned recently from a tour of the temple's stay in Atlantic City with Potomac Tom C. Law, where he arranged details for the meeting.

Religious have been doctored in preparation for the Atlantic City meet and at least two performances will be broadcast.

Membership in the chanters is not confined to officers and past officers in the Masonic organizations, but members are selected from the organization regardless of position. It includes a past potentate, two Scottish Rite Masons who have been honored with the 33rd degree honorary; one past grand commander Knights Templar of the Knights Templar; one past grand high priest, and ten past masters of Masonic lodges.

Many of its members take important parts in various other organizations, including a district governor of Kiwanis and a past president of Civitans.

There are no professional musicians in its ranks, although it includes some of the finest singers in the state and with 100 Shrine singing organizations there is none that ranks higher than Yaarab chanters.

WATERWORKS DANGER SEEN IN NEW CHARTER

Charging that the proposed city manager charter for Atlanta fails to provide an impeachment penalty for possible efforts on the part of council to sell the Atlanta waterworks, the anti-charter headquarters Tuesday issued a statement in which this alleged omission was attacked. The statement follows:

"The present charter of our city contains a drastic clause forever prohibiting the sale of the waterworks and providing for impeachment and removal from office of any official attempting to do so.

"Does it mean anything to the citizens of Atlanta to remember that about a year ago there was an attempt to negotiate with the city government for the sale of its waterworks?"

"Do the people know that in the 1925 legislature a bill was passed granting to cities the right to sell their public utilities, unless their own charter prohibited it?"

"The greatest public utility prize in the entire southeast for private interests to obtain would be the magnificent waterworks system of Atlanta."

"The city manager advocates have written a charter which opens wide the door to the loss of our waterworks, through the medium of section 211 of their charter which allows it to be mortgaged and title vested in those furnishing the money."

"How often have railroads and other public utilities been taken away from their original owners through the medium of bond and mortgage holders?"

"Events of the last two years show most clearly that the eyes of large interests are fixed upon Atlanta's waterworks. The way has been opened for the sale of the waterworks. Now the city manager charter lets down the last barrier."

VACATION BIBLE WORKERS READY FOR SCHOOL HERE

Representatives from the more than 25 vacation Bible schools here in and near Atlanta in 1926, are expected to attend the fifth interdenominational institute to be held at the First Christian church, May 19-20.

It is expected that many new vacation schools will be held in Atlanta this summer and all churches in the city are invited to send workers to the institute this week for training.

Atlanta, it is said, has led in recent years among southern cities in the number of vacation schools. In 1922 the Deatur Community school was one of three schools held in Georgia. Since then the movement has grown rapidly, and last year there were 25 schools in Atlanta and more than 100 in Georgia.

ROSE AND HUNTER NAMED DELEGATES TO CIVITAN MEET

Appointment of J. T. Rose and Joel C. Hunter as delegates from Atlanta to the international convention of the Civitan clubs, at Nashville, Tenn., June 27, by Graham West, president, featured the weekly luncheon of Atlanta Civitans Tuesday at noon at the Atlanta Athletic club.

Discussion of the coming convention and a memory test were principle features of the program, while musical numbers were furnished by the Emory quartette. Alternate delegates to the convention are Earl D. Knight and A. L. Myers. The program was in charge of Colonel E. D. Pearce.

"TEE PEE FLASHES" ISSUE INTERESTING

"Progress and Forests," an article telling of the progress made by a nation in comparison with its forestry development and growth, is a feature of the current issue of Tee Pee Flashes, a semi-monthly publication by J. B. Stiles, general agent of the Texas and Pacific Railroad company.

The issue also contains many other interesting articles, among them one on the comparison of the California and New York motor vehicle tag registration. California, according to statistics, will remain open until a 111 per cent in 1926 over 1925 figures.

Every afternoon there will be a special program put on by the children of the various schools. Plays and poems will be read which have been written by the children.

Mayfair for this afternoon will feature calliope, daisy, geranium, hollyhock, larkspur, lily, phlox, roses, sweet williams, tulips and verbena. The exhibition will remain open until 9 o'clock tonight and Thursday night.

SLUGGED AND ROBBED IN CENTER OF CITY

R. L. Witcher, of 70 Walton street, an employee of the Western Union Telegraph company, was slugged into unconsciousness, robbed of $400 and left lying in the street in the heart of the city Monday night, according to police reports.

Witcher later staggered to his room at 70 Walton street and remained there in a stupor until Tuesday morning, when he reported the hold-up to City Detectives J. J. Chester and P. H. Jones.

Detectives were told that Witcher was walking on Walton street Monday night after having attended a theater and just after he had crossed Broad street he was suddenly struck on the head with some heavy instrument. He told officers he remembered nothing after that until Tuesday. How he managed to get home he did not remember.

SIBLEY ON VACATION, TILSON HOLDS COURT

Federal Judge William J. Tilson, of Macon, will hold court in Atlanta today and Thursday to hear motions. Judge Tilson is acting in the absence of Judge Samuel H. Sibley, who is away on vacation. The federal grand jury has been called to meet on Thursday to consider a number of minor cases, the defendants all being in jail awaiting trial.

Adams completed a term of a year and a day in the Atlanta federal prison on April 11. He admitted signing the name of H. A. Felber to a telegram directed to Mrs. Felber, which informed the prisoner's wife that Felber had been discharged from the penitentiary and requested that she send him $200. Mrs. Felber, who resides in Cleveland, Ohio, immediately wired $200, according to testimony.

Another telegram was sent to Mrs. Louis Horowitz, of Detroit, Mich., by Adams, which carried a similar message, asking for $100, the defendant admitted. He was given a term of from three to five years on this charge.

Jointly indicted with Adams on a felony charge were P. R. Battle, Lewis Mooney, J. C. O'Neil alias J. E. White, whose defendants will be placed on trial this morning.

ELABORATE STILL FOUND IN DAWSON

One of the most unusual stills found in Georgia in some time was uncovered Monday by W. T. Day, deputy prohibition administrator for Georgia, and Prohibition Officer W. A. Allred, in the northern section of Dawson county. Mr. Day said Tuesday on his return to Atlanta.

Water was furnished by a small water wheel which operated a series of cups. Mr. Day said. The still was located on the banks of a swift flowing mountain stream from which water was lifted about 10 feet. A 75-gallon copper still and 5,000 gallons of still beer formed part of the capture. The operators escaped prior to the arrival of the officers, leaving the fires burning under the boiler.

A 'Crime Wave' Is an Indictment

Of an Indifferent People

—By Robert Quillen—

Once there was a brilliant man who said: "You can't indict a whole people." That may not be the exact quotation, but that was what he meant. Anyway, he was wrong. He overlooked the power, and therefore the responsibility, of public opinion.

We are a race of sportsmen. We delight in a contest—so much so that we call business a game.

As sportsmen we invariably favor the little fellow. The under dog is our national hobby—possibly because we came from many countries where our forefathers jerked a forelock to kings.

If a crime is atrocious, our quick sympathy goes to the victim and we confess a pious hope that the criminal may be caught and hanged.

But if the crime is ordinary, and especially if it has some element of romance and adventure, we classify the criminal as an under-dog—one lone man pitted in a game of hide and seek against all the forces of law, and we hope he may dodge capture.

There's no sense in mincing words about it. In this, at least, we should overcome our national habit of kidding ourselves.

We actually do favor the criminal; and if he is caught, we hope that he may escape the gallows.

Now, you can't enforce a law that has no backing of public opinion. In a free land the people are the government, and that means they are the law.

In communities where a written statute is contrary to popular opinion, the only way to enforce the thing is to employ enough brute force to overwhelm the people—and even then the statute will be scorned as public and violated in secret.

Those who believe all law sacred merely because it is law may rest their case about it, but that's the way human nature functions, and that's

Students of events may blame the present disregard of law on the war or any other thing they chose, but the simple fact is that crime waves exist because the people as a whole are not outraged by crime. If the people are against it, and crime can't flourish, it will die. If the people are against it, and crime can't flourish, it will die. If the people are against it, and crime can't flourish, it will die.

Babine might have created the village of Cochin, where a story of provincial meanness probably unmatched in literature is fast reaching its final chapter. Juliette Lefaire is a principal character. She sits in prison while a parisian handwritting clerk determines whether or no she is the author of 83 anonymous letters, and she is the cause of several scandals, house-burnings, cattle poisoning, attempts at murdering children, blackmail, assaults and law suits in the village of Cochin. If his mother did not have the son of Napoleon, whom she had married against her will. But the father spoke of his son ever, in his dying moments on the Rock of St. Helena. The mother, however, the mistress of the point of Napoleon, now felt that it will be "just and fitting" that father and son should sleep together in the same tomb. The result of it is a posthumous attempt to do justice to that great figure, who was so ignominly treated by the English, we cannot refuse," says one paper.

Final chapter, Juliette Lefaire is introduced as a young, beautiful woman while a parish handwriting expert determines whether or no she is the author of 98 anonymous letters, including threats of rape, scandals, house-burnings, cattle poisoning, attempts at murdering children, blackmail, assaults and law suits. The village of Convent has 2 houses and only 30 inhabitants, mostly aged, who hate each other intensely. Only one family received no letters. ODD-SIZE MEN

Are often self-conscious because their clothes don't fit. The big, heavy fellow or the tall, lean boy who has had this trouble probably doesn't know that before he will appear as he wants to appear, that the cut of his suit must match his build. A Kuppenheimer suit fits its owner because it's suited to his individual form. And another thing, too, the Quality's There. So don't forget if you want a real fit—Try a Kuppenheimer.

McCarty-Dunlap Wedding Will Absorb Social Interest Today

The ever-increasing number of weddings scheduled for the current month indicate that society will call a halt on all other activities to pay homage to the bride of May. For what is more all-absorbing and provokes more cordial interest in social circles than a wedding?

Society will assemble today in the name of lovely Miss Mary McCarty, who will become the bride of Edgar Dunlap at 3:30 o'clock at the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James D. McCarty, on Piedmont avenue, the wedding to be one of the most important social events of the season.

The interest of cultural Atlanta will be divided today between several affairs of importance. Members of the Atlanta Music club will gather for the first of the series of morning musicals, which will be followed by a luncheon in the banquet hall of the Atlanta Woman's club. Art lovers will throng the galleries of the high Museum of Art to view the exhibition of Atlanta-owned treasures now on display.

Mrs. Charles Maclean, of Savannah, who is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. St. Elmo Massengale, is one of the most attractive visitors in the city and is being cordially welcomed by a host of friends.

Miss Cora Alice Anderson and Miss Estelle Gardner, of Decatur, are among the fete brides-elect who will be among the honor guests of the day.

Benefit bridge parties, field day exercises, script dances and silver teas are other events listed on the day's calendar that will attract the attention of various groups of friends.

Writers' Club To Give Dinner Thursday Evening.

The Atlanta Writers' club dinner will be held in the banquet hall of the Woman's club on Thursday evening, May 19, at 7:30 o'clock. The entire program will be devoted to the reading of original manuscripts by members of the club, after which a vote will be taken to decide the entries for the 1934-35 prize contest.

The musical program will consist of original compositions by Atlanta artists. Guests desiring to be present at the dinner, arrangements may be made through Mrs. James A. Watson, Seaside avenue.

Mrs. J. R. McDaniel Gives Bridge-Luncheon.

Mrs. J. R. McDaniel was hostess at a bridge-luncheon Thursday at her home on East Ponce de Leon avenue, in Decatur, honoring Mrs. Parker Stewart, of Tupelo, Miss. The luncheon was served at individual tables, each with pink satin hand-painted covers, in the center of which was placed small vases filled with various sweet peas. The guests included Mrs. A. S. Allen, Mrs. Earl Weeks, Mrs. R. B. Langley, Mrs. Hooper Alexander, Mrs. Harle Parks, Mrs. Paula Anderson, Mrs. E. W. Cooper, Mrs. R. C. Moncreux, Miss Etta Trindle, Mrs. Roscoe Knox and Mrs. Parks Stewart.

Altar Society Will Give Benefit Bridge.

A benefit bridge party will be given by the Immaculate Conception Altar society Friday, May 20, on the Ansley road garden.

Delicious home-made cakes and candies will be for sale. Several of the beautiful cakes will be included in the list of general prizes, to be distributed during the afternoon. Anyone desiring reservations please call Mrs. George Deidt, Main 4803-J.

Mrs. Smallwood Weds Rufus Guy Sewell.

Mrs. James H. Cobb, of West End, announces the marriage of her daughter, Mrs. Cordelia Holland Smallwood, of Augusta, and Rufus Guy Sewell, of Lenoir, Saturday evening, May 14, at the Trinity Methodist church in this city. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Wallace Rogers, in the presence of the immediate families and a few intimate friends of the bride.

After a few days spent in Atlanta, Mr. and Mrs. Sewell will be at home in Lenoir.

N. A. P. S. Alumnae To Meet Thursday.

The North Avenue Presbyterian School Alumnae association will hold a special meeting at the school Thursday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, May 19. There are a great many plans to be discussed and the election of officers will be held.

Bessie Tift Alumnae To Give Luncheon.

The Atlanta chapter of the Bessie Tift Alumnae association will have a luncheon Saturday at 1 o'clock at the Henry Grady hotel.

Washington Seminary Commencement Program Announced

The 49th session of the Washington Seminary of Atlanta will come to a close with the graduating exercises of this well-known school, at the Woman's club auditorium Wednesday evening, May 23, Dr. W. D. Furry, president of Shorter college, will make the address. The students will present several beautiful choruses; the D. A. R. medal offered each year by the Atlanta chapter, D. A. R., will be presented to the successful competitor, and the diplomas delivered by Principal L. D. Scott.

Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock the Alumnae association will give its annual lawn party to the senior class on the school grounds.

On Sunday morning at 11 o'clock the local church service will take place at the First Presbyterian church on Peachtree street, when Dr. J. Sproule Lyons, the pastor, will deliver a sermon appropriate to the occasion, to the school and members of the congregation.

The annual concert, consisting of a musical program of music and expression numbers by the more advanced students, will be held at the school auditorium.

The senior class will have a class day celebration Tuesday evening, May 24, at the seminary. An interesting program will be presented, consisting of the president's address, the class history, the class program and vocal and instrumental music. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. Orme Entertains Out-of-Town Guests.

Mrs. A. J. Orme entertained at luncheon Tuesday afternoon at her home on Peachtree street, complimenting Mrs. William Pope, of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. J. M. R. Watson, of Belfast, Ireland. Covers were placed for the honorees and a group of family connections.

Sigma Nu Fraternity To Give Banquet.

Members of Xi chapter of the Sigma Nu fraternity will entertain the graduating members at a banquet at the Carlton hotel Thursday evening, May 19, at 7 o'clock. The entire chapter, pledges and several prominent alumni will be present.

The members who graduate this spring are Neely Poweek, S. H. Sewell and Matthew Harper.

Mrs. Bazemore Entertains Merry Needle Club.

The College Park "Merry Needle club" met with Mrs. J. D. Bazemore Friday afternoon.

After a social hour the talented young daughters of the hostess, Misses Frances, Dorothy and Louise Bazemore, entertained with songs and recitations. Little Evie Warlick gave two recitations. Mrs. L. H. Warlick sang a group of sweet old songs.

American Home Department Sponsors Friday's Tea.

The Friday afternoon tea, under the auspices of the American home department, with Miss Clara Lee Cone, chairman of the division of home-making, as hostess, will be assisted by Mesdames A. H. Hazard, Murray Howard, R. I. Reed, Ira Farmer, E. M. Holbig, H. E. Jessup, John A. Perdue, Fort Land and P. C. Faber.

The guests of honor will be Superintendent H. Decorations will be in charge of Mrs. C. H. Brandon and Mrs. Joel Hunter. Mrs. Mary Griffith Dobbs, chairman of music, has arranged a musical program.

Members are urged to make reservations as early as possible by phoning Mrs. T. E. Simmons, Hemlock 0225, and Mrs. Josephine Smith, Hemlock 5853.

Rare Painting at Exhibit Described by Art Commission

BY LAMAR SPARKS.

"That artist has painted many a picture for bread and a bottle of absinth."

The artist—Adolphe Monticelli, that pre-impressionist who refusing to imitate, inherited and developed a technique that is being appreciated only in its fullness at the present time.

The painting—"Garden Fete," a gem of the Atlanta-owned art exhibit, now being held at the High museum.

Patron of Art. The speaker—J. J. Haverty, that patron of art, whose interest and cooperation has made possible only this display but has proven an inspiration in the earlier stages of Atlanta's art history.

"The 'Garden Fete' is a picture of jewel-like coloring," remarked Mr. Haverty, standing recently before his own canvas at the High museum. The artist holds a unique place in 19th century painting.

Figures of ladies in rich brocades, a sport jester and a hound become more easily discernible as you study the picture feeling something of the azure and golden splendor of his canvases with his luster and quality of hammered bronze or fiery porcelains, a veritable sculpture of melted jewels.

"Here," said Mr. Haverty, pointing to the Path of Gold, by Jonas Lie, "is a painting by one of our strongest American artists."

Lie, that modern master of the brush, whose series of 12 paintings of the Panama canal construction work stand out as a unique contribution to the field of art, is pre-eminent as a painter of industry. He has caught the romance of high cranes, belching smoke, engines and derricks and fashioned of them a thing of beauty and universal appeal.

"The 'Path of Gold' is a typical example of his work. Under the quiet hush of Brooklyn bridge, low barges scurry in the bright light so pleasingly contrasted with the somber distant skyline of old New York.

"The beauty of that picture lies in its strength," remarked Mr. Haverty. "There is the force of motion, and there is the force of stillness."

"Upon a recent visit to New York I met Mr. Lie, asking him at the time if he had any of his Panama series left. Such works of art, if only for their historical significance, I told him, should be kept in a national museum."

"The great galleries of the world are owned by their respective governments. America owns no such institution. A bill to appropriate a sum for this purpose, however, is now before congress, and I hope the day is not far off when America shall have her own national museum."

The portrait of Margaret Burr, by Gainesborough, is another note-worthy painting in Mr. Haverty's collection, now on exhibit at the High museum, holding even more interest when it is learned that this charming young woman became Mrs. Gainesborough at the early age of nineteen.

Attracts Art Lovers. "Le Boudoir," a characteristic painting of Frederick Friscke, whose picture "Home Work" formed the frontispiece of a recent issue of the Literary Digest, will attract the attention of art lovers at the museum throughout the coming week.

Of this artist it has been said: "He failed to mind sunlit verandas, old-fashioned gardens of hollyhocks and pinks, flooded with light—morning rooms open to the sun and late afternoon with everything quivering in the long lingering rays of a power spot. And color?—A perfect riot of color, so bewitching under its glare of light, that one simply feels it would try to define the quality."

"A Medieval Ball," by Jerome Myers, a recent acquisition of Mr. Haverty's is a strikingly characteristic work of this master.

Others contributing to the exhibition are Mr. and Mrs. Hunt Chiple, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Lowenstein, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. McBurney, Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Rainwater, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Hamann, Mr. and Mrs. Bulow Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Chaucery Smith, Mrs. R. W. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Dunlap, Mrs. Edward S. Gay, Dr. and Mrs. Fred Hodgson, Mr. and Mrs. E. Marvin Underwood, Mr. and Mrs. J. Carroll Payne, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Howell, Mr. and Mrs. A. Ten Eyck Brown, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Shallenberger, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Oglesby, Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Elise, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Hickey, Mrs. S. M. Iman, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bulow Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. McBurney, Mrs. Clarence Blosser, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schell, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Neely, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Pringle.

Mrs. McWhorter Named President Agnes Scott Club

Mrs. Fonville McWhorter, prominent Atlanta woman, was elected president of the Agnes Scott club at the meeting held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lewis Gaines, 18 Park lane.

Other officers elected were Mrs. John W. Rutland, first vice president; Mrs. James R. Colman, second vice president; Mrs. W. M. Dunn, recording secretary; Miss Alice Green, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Fred Cole, Jr., treasurer; Mrs. John J. Eagan, Mrs. Harold Wey, and Mrs. W. W. Anderson, counselors.

Mrs. Preston, a member of the club who has been in Korea for several years, returning recently for the graduation of her daughter from Agnes Scott college, gave an informal talk on her experiences in the Orient. The program was in charge of Mrs. Harold Wey.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Lowenstein, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. McBurney, Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Rainwater, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Hamann, Mr. and Mrs. Bulow Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Chaucery Smith, Mrs. R. W. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Dunlap, Mrs. Edward S. Gay, Dr. and Mrs. Fred Hodgson, Mr. and Mrs. E. Marvin Underwood, Mr. and Mrs. J. Carroll Payne, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Howell, Mr. and Mrs. A. Ten Eyck Brown, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Shallenberger, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Oglesby, Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Elise, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Hickey, Mrs. S. M. Iman, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bulow Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. McBurney, Mrs. Clarence Blosser, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schell, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Neely, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Pringle.

Flower Show Awards Given In College Park Exhibition

Mrs. C. V. Holt won first prize for the best collection of garden flowers of not more than five and not less than three varieties, in the College Park spring flower show held Tuesday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. V. C. Mason, on East Virginia avenue, under the auspices of the College Park Woman's club, with Mrs. D. R. Nesbitt chairman, Larkspur, fever, the cornucopia, snapdragons and huddled, exhibited in a blue basket, tied with a blue tulle bow, was Mrs. Holt's entry which won the prize.

Second prize was awarded Mrs. Oscar Palmour, for her exhibition of snapdragon, larkspur, columbine and sweetpeas, filling a tan and green basket. Mrs. T. O. Plunkett won third prize for her display of red carnations, red verbenas and red poppies, exhibited in a silver vase, won last year by Mrs. Plunkett, and offered by the College Park Woman's club.

In class two, awarded for best collection of garden flowers in pastel shades, the awards went to Mrs. C. F. Holt, who exhibited her flowers in a blue bowl; Mrs. Oscar Palmour, whose display was arranged in a lavender basket, while a green bowl held Mrs. V. C. Mason's entry.

In the best 18 roses class first award was given Mrs. Oscar Palmour for the collection arranged in a gilt basket. Mrs. D. R. Nesbitt won second and her flowers were effectively grouped in a pastel blue vase. Mrs. C. F. Holt won first prize for the best 25 larkspur exhibited in a bronze basket. Mrs. V. C. Mason's flowers displayed in a white reed basket, won second prize, and the third award went to Mrs. Henry Godbee, who made the white reed basket in which her flowers were arranged. Lavender and pink sweetpeas in a lavender glass bowl won first prize in the 100 sweetpea class, entered by Mrs. Henry Godbee. Second prize went to Mrs. William Mills, for her display arranged in a Dresden bowl, while a blue woven basket held the collection entered by Mrs. D. R. Nesbitt which received third prize.

Mrs. C. R. Everts and her committee served refreshments.

Mrs. Oberdorfer Is Named President Goucher Alumnae

Mrs. Eugene Oberdorfer, Jr., was elected president of the Goucher College Alumnae Club of Atlanta at the regular meeting held Friday at the home of Mrs. R. N. Clark on St. Charles avenue. Other newly elected officers of the club are: Mrs. J. C. Reall, vice president; Mrs. H. W. Jones, treasurer; Mrs. F. J. Henry, secretary, and Miss Sophia Horne, publicity chairman. Plans were advanced for the activities for the next few months and the constitution of the National Alumnae association was read and discussed.

A report was given of the recent visit to Atlanta of the registrar of the college, Miss Carrie Mae Probst, who attended the registrars' convention held here last month.

Members present were Mrs. J. C. Reall, Mrs. C. D. Benson, Mrs. R. N. Clark, Mrs. H. Halverstadt, Mrs. E. S. Heath, Mrs. F. J. Henry, Miss Sophia Horne, Mrs. P. D. Ittner, Mrs. H. W. Jones, Mrs. S. R. Kane, Mrs. Eugene Oberdorfer, Jr., Mrs. C. M. Wood.

Noted French Author To Give Lecture To French Alliance Aluminum Bowls and Economy Tables To Feature Flower Show

The French alliance meets Thursday afternoon, May 19, at 3:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. E. P. McBurney, 1055 Peachtree road.

Charles Gos, a French author, born in Switzerland, will give a lecture on "The Influence of Mountains Upon Some of the Great Writers of the Romantic Period." Mr. Gos is an author and special correspondent of the Journal de Geneve, for which paper he is now writing a series of articles on the different aspects of American life, to be published by this newspaper and later assembled in book form.

Mr. Gos is a family of artists. His father is a celebrated painter of the Swiss Alps, some of his paintings being on exhibit now at the Woman's club. From his father, the painter, Charles Gos, the author and journalist, inherited his love and appreciation of the mountains, a love none the less ardent because expressed in a different medium. The lecturer will make comparisons between the Goethe, Byron and Chateaubriand and will show how each one of those authors of the romantic period has understood and described the beauty of the mountains and how that beauty has impressed each one of them according to his individual nature and temperament. Then talking especially of the French literature of the same period, Mr. Gos will compare the love of nature among several French authors, illustrating his talk with comparative readings from Chateaubriand and J. J. Rousseau. The lecture will be introduced by Charles Lofland, president of the French alliance.

A program of dancing and music will be an enjoyable feature of the afternoon's entertainment. George Rogers will sing "Dien Puisse" from Faust, and will be accompanied on the piano by Dr. Malcolm Dewey, of Emory university. A French riddling dance will be given by the pupils of the Potter-Spicer School of Dancing.

Dr. and Mrs. Williams Visit Italy in May.

En route to Italy to spend the summer in Florence, Dr. and Mrs. Tom A. Williams, of Washington, D. C., well known in Atlanta through frequent visits, will leave Miami Beach, where they are now settled, about the middle of May, visiting in Charleston, Washington and New York.

In England they will attend the graduation of their son, Reginald, at Cambridge university. Mrs. Williams will visit in the lake district and Dr. Williams at Kennett hall in Cambridgeshire, after which they will motor through Holland, Belgium, France, Switzerland and the northern cities of Italy before taking a villa in Florence for the summer.

Dr. Williams may be addressed at the Royal Society club, St. James street, London, and will return to Miami in the fall. He will also visit the neurological and psychiatric clinics in France and Italy.

Prominent Matrons To Be Art Hostesses.

The following members of the Atlanta Art association have been invited to serve as hostesses at the Loan Exhibition, High Museum of Art, 1032 Peachtree street, Wednesday, May 18: Mrs. W. F. Shallenberger, chairman; Mrs. J. E. Hickey, Mrs. Bulow Campbell, Mrs. Clark Howell, Mrs. Louis Elsas, Mrs. G. F. Williams, Mrs. Denzil Peete, Mrs. James Gilbert, Mrs. John M. Slaton, Mrs. Cator Woolford.

The museum is open from 10 to 4:30 o'clock week days and from 2 to 5 o'clock on Sundays.

STILL DISCUSSES PROPOSED STATE LAWS FOR CHILD

Luther Still, Fulton county representative in the state legislature and a prominent figure in labor circles, was principal speaker at the second session of the Methodist conference of North Atlanta district Tuesday in the Wesley Memorial church.

Outlining child legislation to be introduced at the next session of the assembly, Mr. Still stressed the responsibility in crime and pointed to the measures on child legislation as a means of mitigating crime.

Five bills on child legislation discussed by Mr. Still are the juvenile court bill, legal adoption bill, non-support bill, desertion bill, illegitimacy bill and mothers' aid fund bill.

John B. Gordon Home Purchase Is Urged By Kirkwood Citizens

Preservation of the General John B. Gordon home, on DeKalb avenue, in Kirkwood, as a memorial to the Confederacy will be urged at a mass meeting of citizens at the Kirkwood school, Kirkwood road, Thursday night, when plans will be formulated for a statewide campaign to raise funds for purchase of the home, according to W. E. Saunders, chairman of the twelfth ward, temporary chairman.

As the home of one of the south's foremost soldiers and statesmen, the movement to save the homeplace for future generations has gained considerable impetus.

Virginia University Head at Unveiling Of Negro Statue Here

Dr. Edward A. Alderman, president of the University of Virginia, will deliver the principal address at the unveiling of the Booker T. Washington statue, on the grounds of the Washington High school, at 3:30 o'clock Friday afternoon. It was announced Tuesday.

Other speakers will be Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of city schools, and Dr. J. W. E. Bowen, of Gammon Theological seminary. The Rev. W. J. Faulkner, pastor of the First Congregational church, will make the invocation. The veil will be removed from the monument to the negro leader by Brenda Yancy, a student of the school.

Said to be the first time in the south that a statue in honor of a negro has been erected on public grounds, the ceremony is expected to be attended by 5,000 to 10,000 people. The program was arranged by Charles L. Harper, principal of the school.

Arrangement of flowers in similar bowls, designated by the committee on arrangements, which in this case will be bowls of aluminum, 9 or 10 inches in diameter and four inches high, furnished by the exhibitor, will present one of the most interesting and exciting classes entered in the Peachtree Garden club's flower show, held Thursday afternoon, May 19, at the Piedmont Driving club at 3 o'clock.

The aluminum bowl, relegated from its lowly position as a kitchen utensil, will take upon itself a glorified air of unsuspected elegance, serving as a container for a riotous display of flower arrangement, at the same time proving its economical value in being used for the central decoration of a table. When the Garden Club of America staged a flower show in New York recently this exhibit attracted compelling interest, exhibitors showing its great enthusiasm over the class as did the passing crowd.

Other class to be featured will be the economy table, very simple in taste, and suitable for porch, breakfast or tea.

Points Introduced.

Originality, individuality and interest in the arrangement of flowers introduced in china, linen and glassware. No flat silver will be displayed and the effectiveness of color scheme and arrangement will count largely for the exhibitor, color effect and not quality being given first consideration.

These two classes will be headlines on the flower show program of the Peachtree Garden club, introducing a novel and new note into the fifth annual spring show, to which friends of the members are invited, and to which there is no admission fee. Garden flowers, annuals, perennials, flowering shrubs, novelties will be displayed with a sweepstake prize for the best exhibit, while roses, larkspur, Madonna lilies, iris and delphinium will constitute classes, all flowers to be raised by the entrant.

Mrs. Hill Is Chairman.

Mrs. William P. Hill is chairman of arrangements and Mrs. William H. Kiser and Mrs. Jesse Draper are co-chairmen.

Mrs. Robert L. Cooney is president of the Peachtree Garden club and Mrs. Prince Webster, the program chairman, deserves praise for the many attractive entertainments which have been arranged throughout the past year. The officers include Mrs. William H. Kiser, first vice president; Mrs. Prince Webster, second vice president; Mrs. Albert E. Thornton, treasurer; Mrs. Cam Dorsey, secretary; Mrs. Hugh Dorsey, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Jesse Draper, chairman of the board.

The committee in charge of arrangements called for immediately after the flower show, as no responsibility can be assumed for them. Judges will be selected and announced by the committee and all flowers exhibited must be raised by the exhibitor.

Mrs. Buchanan Elected LaGrange Alumnae President

Mrs. James B. Buchanan was elected president of the LaGrange College Alumnae of Atlanta Tuesday at a meeting held at the Henry Grady hotel. Other officers elected were Mrs. Thomas G. Abridge, first vice president; Mrs. S. E. McConnell, second vice president; Mrs. Warren A. Chandler, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Guy Carmichael, recording secretary; Miss Evelyn Whitaker, treasurer; Mrs. James B. Ridley acted as chairman of the nominating committee.

Mrs. Buchanan served as president of the Atlanta alumnae of this well-known Georgia college in 1925 and is well qualified to again assume the duties of president. Under her administration the first state meeting of the alumnae was held, meeting in Atlanta and assembling prominent women from all over the state who formerly attended LaGrange college. The Rufus Smith Memorial library was installed by the alumnae during Mrs. Buchanan's regime and it was largely through her efforts that several thousand volumes were contributed to the library. She served as an entertainer in France during the world war and is an active member of the Atlanta unit, Women's Overseas Service league. Mrs. Buchanan was before her marriage Mrs. Teresa Thayer, and is numbered among the most popular Atlantans to ever graduate from this prominent southern college.

Mrs. Buchanan succeeds Mrs. A. G. Cox as president, whose administration has been marked by a broadening of the alumnae program and a successful continuation of its many worthwhile activities. Another feature of the meeting Saturday was the making of plans to hold an Alumnae Day Sunday, May 22, at the commencement of LaGrange college. A large number of Atlanta alumnae will motor to LaGrange for this event, which will be an outstanding feature of the commencement season.

Savannah Visitor Is Honor Guest.

Mrs. Charles Maclean, of Savannah, is being delightfully entertained while the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. St. Elmo Massengale.

Tuesday Mrs. J. P. Allen entertained in her honor at a seated luncheon at her home on Fifteenth street.

Oglethorpe Board To Meet Saturday.

All members of the woman's board of Oglethorpe university are urged to attend a meeting to be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the old chapel in Lupton hall. New business of great importance will come before the meeting and the members are requested to be present promptly at 2 o'clock.

Epworth League To Present Play.

"An Old Fashioned Mother" will be presented by the Grant Park Epworth league, under the auspices of the Anna Pin circle, Woman's Missionary Society at the Stewart Avenue Methodist church, Friday, May 20, at 8 o'clock. Admission is 25 cents.

Many Think of the Jeweler Only When They Wish to Remember Some Friend or Loved One With a Gift

But to others his fairland of fine things is a place where they may gratify their own wishes for gems of distinction or for silver whose rare luster adds to a home that touch of grace and charm peculiarly its own. Investment in jewelry and silverware for personal use is wise and safe. The principal remains; pleasure and pride in their possession affords a rich bounty of interest.

MY soul I bid thee answer—
How are love's triumphs wrought?
Two hearts with but one feeling;
And tell me how love comes;
"It comes unsought, unsought,"
And tell me how love goes;
"It was not love that went."
—From the German.

LAWRENCE GILMAN, music critic of The New York Herald-Tribune, in his scholarly and at the same time highly entertaining editorial treatment each Sunday of some aspect of music, took for recent discussion the growing estrangement between Europe and America, a process so rapid that permanent separation seems imminent. He quotes from distinguished contemporaries in the critical world who are thus prophesying and himself reluctantly provides what looks like proof in the overwhelming trend of modern composition towards every thing save love as a motivating influence.

For something like four centuries until now, Mr. Gilman comments, the highest creative instinct has found its most powerful expression in love music.

But all that is changed. The work of the modern composer is almost invariably objective. He looks outside of himself for his inspiration, and his reactions, as evidenced in his music, are as extraneous as his inspiration. His product is what you might call "cold," cold, abstract analysis of things, or possibly even emotions, but it is emotions, they must concern the composer only as a scientist considers a butterfly impaled for study on a pin.

To look in upon oneself, and produce such music as that of Beethoven, rooted from the depths of the being of genius, would, according to the modern musical mind, be almost vulgar; a substitution of mere sentiment, however, sublimated, for the cold heights to which intellectuality alone can aspire.

TO say it all in the vernacular: love music isn't being done by the best composers.

WELL, now, let's take a look at literature.
How different will be our first conclusion. Modern literature is all about love.
But is it?

IN love, if love be ours,
Faith and unfaith can never be equal powers.
Unfaith in sight is want of faith in all.
It is a little gift within the love,
Which by and by will make the music mute,
And ever widening slowly silence all.

THESE lines are, in truth, Victorian.
The thing that contemporary literature calls love, on the contrary, is a thing that comes and goes like the budding of spring and autumn's melancholy. It is wholly objective. It has just as much to do with the inner life of the spirit as has that modern music aforesaid, or the scientist's concern with beauty impaled on a pin.

Sex is a part, but only a part, of the love the German philosopher-poet analyzes in the opening verses, and Tennyson in these last. And so, from what a vastly different viewpoint they line up their facts and come to their conclusions; make, in other words, their analyses.

CYNICISM has made love so shabby, how a thing it is not supposed to inspire the soul-searching which alone can produce, say, an Ibsen. An epic work needs an epic theme.
In art, which is true, that love alone is perfect, is supreme, which can deny itself, or must be denied. The drama of it is essentially sacrilegious. The modernist's conception of love that is complete is love only that is satisfied.

MAY this not be the reason the modernists in music are taking for their favorite theme the outer, seeming of things? The confusion and turmoil which are the superficial con-

Atlanta Federation Meets Here Tuesday

The Atlanta Federation of Women's clubs meets Tuesday, May 31, at 10 a. m., in banquet hall of the Atlanta Woman's club, lunch being served at 1 o'clock. This is the final meeting of the year and marks the close of the administration of Mrs. R. K. Rambo.

Officers will be elected for the coming year, reports will be made and the president, Mrs. Rambo, requests all member clubs to note the date and make no conflicting arrangements as it is desired that there be a full attendance of members, officers and chairmen.

MODERN music, modern literature, paint, as we saw, are perhaps the reason there is little that is lastingly significant in what these modernists are doing lies in a little detail the writer, the composer overlooks, which Daniel Frohman, dean of producers of the drama in America, pointed out in an interview in his recent tour south. He was talking about plays.

The chief business of producing plays is to begin with life as it is, and through it weave sufficient dramatic interest to mirror life as it ought to be, and might be. Through all fine plays runs a fine thread of idealism.

And there you are, OBJECTIVENESS—materialism—the evil in it, which lies like an ax at the root of art, is that music, literature, drama, criticism, sculpture, it because it is in possession.

WHY has Europe turned her back on love? Why has music deserted the theme of love? Maybe her sister arts, literature and drama, provide the answer. AND so—what is there left for Europe to do, if she would preserve her standing in modern society, but to seek a new inspiration? To change the goal of her triumphs? Now that she is in the twentieth century, she must do as the twentieth century does.

Feeling? It is an indulgence of the weak.
But Intellectualism. Ah, there is the time of the times. It is essential, so that even emotions come handy to its mill, and the modern Europe can turn it and twist it, so that in the end, it defies the most careful analysis to prove what emotion started out to be, or that it ever was one.

SHORTAGE PROBE ASKED BY WALKER

The Fulton county grand jury will be asked to probe charges of the alleged shortage of $8,380 recently reported in the window department of the motor vehicle bureau in the office of the secretary of state, it was announced Tuesday by Governor Clifford Walker.

The governor turned the matter over to the office of Attorney General George M. Napier for further action. Mr. Napier is but of the city but the grand jury will be asked to investigate the alleged shortage by Assistant Attorney General T. H. Gross.

The shortage was revealed in a report filed by State Auditor Sam J. State. It also was reported several weeks before the audit by Charles A. Cook, cashier of the motor vehicle department. Mr. Cook made public this information after Charles Wilkes, negro porter, had been arrested charged with stealing $800 from the office of the Secretary of State. Mr. Cook called on State Treasurer Speer to demand of Cashier Cook a restitution of the $8,380. Mr. Cook denied having anything to do with the alleged shortage.

Treasurer Speer informed Governor Walker Monday that the matter had been referred to the attorney general for future action.

ROTARIANS HOLD SPECIAL SERVICES FOR LATE MEMBERS

Robert S. Parker, Kendall Weisiger and T. W. Moore were principal speakers in a memorial program dedicated to the late L. L. Hixson and Lee Jordan, by Atlanta Rotarians at the weekly meeting Tuesday at the Capital City club.

Vocal selections were rendered by George Baron. Robert Foreman, president, presided.

For Men Who Get Up Cross in the Morning

Lots of men are like that. Won't speak a pleasant word—if indeed they'll speak to you at all—until they've had their breakfast. No matter what you say to them, it's the wrong thing.

The way to treat men like that is not with conversation. They are the men who, like most Americans, live on their nerves. They work too hard. They don't get enough sleep. And when they have to get up in the morning, they are not completely rested. So they're cross.

What they need is a good hot drink that will refresh them—that will set their nerves on edge—that will give them a comfortable sense of well-being—that will put them in harmony with themselves, with you, and with the rest of the world and that will make them fit for the strenuous day before them.

Any one of the three perfect RIDGWAYS blend can do this. Try it. Compare its effect with those of any other drink. You'll notice the difference in one day. You'll be calmer, happier, and easier to live with. And you'll love the delicious, full-bodied flavor.

"The First Thing You Think of"—RIDGWAYS Tea
THREE perfect blends to meet all demands:
RIDGWAYS "Her Majesty's Blend"—originally blended for the special and private use of Queen Victoria of Great Britain.
RIDGWAYS "Gold Label" 100% Genuine Orange Pekoe Tea—The connoisseur's favorite—a blend of the world's finest flowering Orange Pekoe teas.
RIDGWAYS "Orange Label" Tea—a fine, mild India-Ceylon tea—the most popular blend in the United States.

TO HOLD INQUEST OVER MAN FOUND DEAD ON PORCH

An inquest over the body of B. W. Willingham, 28, of Bethune, S. W., who was found dead Tuesday morning on the porch of a rooming house, will be held Tuesday at 10 o'clock at the undertaking establishment of Harry G. Pond, according to Paul Donelson, Fulton county coroner.

Willingham was seen sitting in a chair on the porch by roomers Monday night and when discovered dead by "Le Young Tuesday morning his body was still warm. In his pockets were found three small bottles, one containing hypodermic, another containing ether, paraffin and the third a filled prescription. The drugs mentioned are not poisonous in ordinary doses, it is claimed.

According to Mrs. Young, Willingham came to the boarding house last Wednesday and asked to put up there. He gave the landlady $12.25, stating he was all he had but that he was expecting funds soon. To earn his keep he did odd jobs about the house. A day or two ago he received $10 from his mother with a letter directing him to be careful in spending the money, as she was in need of funds herself.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

The Constitution's Patterns

A Dainty Morning Frock. 5811. Figured percale, cotton foulard, linen, gingham or tub silk could be used for this charming model.

The pattern is cut in six sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. A 38-inch size requires 4 1/2 yards of 27-inch material together with 3 1/2 yards of contrasting material for facing on collar, belt and pockets. The width of the dress at the lower edge with plaits extended is 2 3/4 yards.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

A CHARMING SUMMER FROCK. 5508. Printed crepe and georgette are here combined. The jacket portions may be omitted.

This pattern is cut in 7 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. To make the dress for a 38 inch size will require 3 3/4 yards of 40-inch crepe, and 7 1/2 yards of 40-inch georgette, if made as illustrated. The width of the skirt at the lower edge is 2 3/4 yards.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps for our up-to-date spring and summer 1927 book of fashions.

In ordering patterns write name and address plainly on a sheet of paper. Order by number and include price in silver or stamps. Do not mail letter to The Constitution Building in Atlanta, but address as follows: Fashion Department, The Constitution, 11-13 Sterling place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Normal Weather Return Is Seen By Forecaster

Continued fair weather, with much higher temperatures, is predicted today by C. F. von Herrmann, local meteorologist. Temperatures are slated to rise rapidly during the next few days. It was stated in the wake of an unexpected cold spell that has hovered over the city.

The cool wave was general over the southeastern states, the weather bureau, reported, and reports from the neighboring cities indicate a general rise in temperatures within the next few days.

Temperatures Tuesday ranged from 51 as the low point, to 74 during the early afternoon. Early morning temperature, the lowest for today, is not expected to go below the 58-degree mark and will probably rise to 80 degrees during the day.

The wind velocity, although greater than the velocity during Tuesday, is not expected to be quite so breezy during the day and probably will not exceed the normal rate of speed today, Mr. von Herrmann stated.

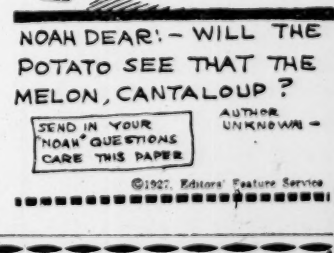

Georgia, especially Atlanta, is unusually dry for this time of the year, but there is no indication of rain in the weather bureau office, Mr. von Herrmann said.

WIFE OF PRESIDENT OF INSTITUTE DIES

Texas Plainsman, Riding to Boston, Here With Pony

Without any shyness to speak of, "Texas Bill" Smart, 54-year-old Texas plainsman, poet and straight-shooter of the hip and lecture platform varieties, passed through Atlanta Tuesday en route to Paris, France, aboard his sea-going "mustang," "Texas Belle."

Under a half-acre sombrero, over a pair of high-heeled boots and within a gangrene green shirt that had seen many a Monday morning in the saddle, "Texas Bill" showed off on his faithful filly as the sun was coming up on March 23 last and left his Seaside, Texas, home at 11 a. m. By sundown on July 23, "Texas Bill" hopes to be mingling with the high-foreheads of Boston, Mass., from which port he intends sailing for France to be among those present when the A. E. F. veterans gather in the Vin Rouge belt of Paris.

Since pushing off from his overland jaunt, "Texas Bill" and Belle have covered some 1,100 miles. They came through the flood area of the Mississippi without losing a man. The pair have averaged some 20 miles a day so far, "Texas Bill" declared Tuesday night. "When I pick a mount, I pick one," he admitted, "with pardonable pride. 'Texas Belle' is a mixture—part Kentucky thoroughbred and part mustang," he said, failing, however, to go further into details.

"Texas Bill," as he is suspected, is picturesque. Despite his 54 years, he stands some 6 feet 3 inches with or without socks and if he continues in his present state of health, they'll have to shoot him to prevent his dying of old age. He is a veteran of the Spanish-American and the world wars, serving with Company B of the 43rd Engineers in the latter conflict. He is a state officer of the American Legion in Texas and rates as one of the most popular members of that national organization.

In Atlanta, "Texas Bill" was mistaken for one of the members of a rodeo show which is preparing to open here. "Am I a rodeo actor?" he exclaimed, drawing up at full height. "Sir, I am a graduate of the North Texas Teachers' college, a gentleman and a scholar. When I ride down a steer, we have beef steak for the next meal."

"Texas Bill" need not add, is gathering material for a prospective book which in the near future may be on sale at the nearest bookstand. Reservations may or may not be made at any moment.

Another Too Sick To Work

Both Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

At the second bottle I began to feel better and I have used the Vegetable Compound ever since, whenever I feel badly. I recommend it and I will answer any letters asking about it."—Mrs. ADOLPH HANSEN, Holmquist, South Dakota.

Could Work Only Two Hours
Encanto, Calif.—"I bless the day I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was so weak and tired all the time I could not work more than two hours each day, then had to go to bed for the rest of the day. I read so much about the Vegetable Compound and I was so weak that I decided to try it. I now do my own housework—washing, scrubbing, and ironing—and then help my husband with his garden. I do not have that worn-out feeling now. I advise every woman to give your wonderful medicine a trial, and I will answer any letters I receive from women asking about it."—Mrs. STELLA LAY, 700 Jamacha Road, Encanto, Calif.

INSTALLMENT XXXIII.

The Flirt.

Last night Cecelia had dreamed that she went to her cupboard and found all sorts of lovely clothes she didn't know she possessed or had forgotten all about—such lovely clothes! But, alas, it was only a dream, and the reality was so very different. This afternoon she tried to make that dream come a little true and because she was paid in English money and the lire stood rather low, she was tempted to spend more than she could afford. She was worried, too, because she had changed her check at the English bank and then discovered that the Italian bank across the way was paying 1,350 more to the pound, and the difference would have bought another pair of stockings, or more than paid for what her hairdressing had cost. And it irritated her to see the bevy of smartly dressed girls from the hotels swarming about the shops full of purses and the gay carelessness about spending which comes of having the foresight at one's birth to choose a rich father. Cecelia Bryant had chosen her father very ill, from a mercenary point of view.

Through all this shop sauntering, however, there was one interesting feature. It had begun at the bank when, after she changed her check, she sat down for a few moments to glance through the assortment of English newspapers spread for the convenience of customers at a long table with chairs ranged around it.

Sitting at one end of this table when Cecelia Bryant came in was an oddish man who, in a rather unpolished way, reminded her of Willie Moppet. Secretly, however, she laughed at herself for entertaining that idea. Was she so taken by Willie that she must see a resemblance to him in every chance male? The blood rushed to her cheeks and she bent low over her paper with a self-derisive smile.

No doubt about it, the old man was looking at her. He had heavy-lidded eyes and wore pince-nez with divided lenses, and he was very thin and smartly dressed.

Thus began something that might be termed an adventure. Afterwards Cecelia encountered this old man everywhere. When she came out of the hairdresser's he was looking into Winter's window, across the street to be sure, but he had an air of lingering. He even entered the lace shop while she was there and made a purchase himself.

This was rather amusing, thought Cecelia; but she was just a little bit nervous, too, not knowing what to do in case he actually spoke to her. Of course, she would have to snub him, but something told her that possibly he wouldn't speak without encouragement, so she had to prevent not to follow him.

Now if she went into Gallo's and had tea, would he take that for encouragement? She did so want her tea. And his continual hovering about was irksome, in that it prevented Cecelia from loitering as much as she would have liked to do. She really didn't wish to spend money so much as she wanted to shop-gaze.

Then it occurred to her that as her concert was to be held at the Hotel Doria there was no reason at all why she shouldn't go there for tea, and have a look at the room she was to sing in. Perhaps Willie would be there. At least she could ask for him, and if he wasn't in that nice M. Bersch he was so friendly with could show her the concert room. She had never been to the Doria, but the gay life of the hotel was familiar to her through Willie's tales, and she felt that there was nothing about her appearance which could embarrass him. She had on her very best, a quite nice beige colored suit with a pull-on hat to match, and a crepe jumper of "ashes of roses" which she had made herself and which was as smart as any Bond street shop ever turned out.

A little to her dismay, however, the thin old man continued to follow in her wake as she started up the hill, and when she reached the hotel garden it was apparent that he meant still to continue. Well, Cecelia was considerably slyer than he was, so instead of following the winding carriage drive she dived into the zig-zag footpath, scrambling up like a limble young goat, and when she arrived at the terrace there was as yet no sign of her unwelcome admirer. It was only then it occurred to her that very likely he was staying here.

Hurriedly she asked for Mr. Moppet at the concierge's desk, but before that haughty potentate had got around to sending a boy to find out whether or not Mr. Moppet was in, the horrid old man appeared.

But Willie also appeared—without being summoned—and he seemed so pleased to see Cecelia and took charge of her so completely and efficiently that she felt as though she had been saved from some awful fate and was ready to cry with relief.

Tea? Yes—yes—O, she did want her tea!

Willie said they'd have it in the little salon—supposed to be a reading and card room, but there was also a piano—and when they were settled there she told him about the horrid old man.

Willie Moppet's eyebrows had a most distinguished trick of rising and could register the most profound emotions.

"Really?" he exclaimed, while his eyebrows expressed cold disgust. "That must be our Lord Landell."

"Lord Landell?" Cecelia echoed faintly.

"The Earl of Landell," Willie amplified. "He's staying here."

"Well, I don't care who he is," said Cecelia. "He's been following me about all the afternoon and—she surveyed her little collection of purses with dismay—"made me buy lots of things I wouldn't have, just because I couldn't stop and enjoy myself looking in the windows."

"Rotten," said Willie. "Forget about it, my dear, and have your tea. You'll find those cakes awfully good. How sweet and lovely looking! Cecelia, where did you get your blou?"

"I made it myself," she replied pleasantly gratified.

"The deuce you did! All that embroidery?"

"Oh hush," said Cecelia, munching one of the cakes he had recommended. "Already she was forgetting her tried admirer, but Willie hadn't forgotten him."

"And you're not cross that I came here?" she asked.

"My dear," he protested. "Weren't you going somewhere else?"

"Only down to the tea garden, but it wasn't important, and anyway, if it had been—"

His voice told her that she alone mattered in this world, and her heart warmed to him gratefully. Because as yet she wasn't famous, and some thing might go wrong with those ambitious calculations of hers. Perhaps she'd never be anything at all. Well, she couldn't be anything much unless somebody gave her a helping hand. It would cost a lot to study under Morand in Paris. O, if only she could! Anything—anything for that. Her golden voice; but, alas, just golden ore at present, needing all the working and polishing in the world to make it suitable for ornamenting the great palaces of song.

"O, Willie, I must manage somehow," she said, but pleading more to the world at large than to him.

"Just think of the girls who have so much—"

"I know, I want a lot, but I could get along on very little, really. And M. Morand says he'll wait for the money for my lessons until I'm earning something. It's the cost of living that's going to do me in. If only I could think of a way."

$10,247,000

New York, May 17.—(P)—Trading in the bond market today was almost devoid of interest and prices displayed

no definite trend. Irregularities probably were due in large measure to the shifting of investments which usually occurs around quarterly interest

A few railroad mortgages displayed modest activity, but prices generally were small. Erie 4s advanced a point in early dealings, then settled back around yesterday's close.

Chesapeake corporation 5s were again in demand and moved up fractionally, while Louisville & Nashville 5s gained

2 points to 105.34, a new high for the issue.

Industrial bonds showed mixed tendencies. Dominion Iron & Steel moved up to a new 1927 peak and Walworth

4s advanced with warrants, duplicating their previous top, while Wabash

Spencer Steel convertible 7s were heavy.

Public utilities attracted little attention. Foreign bond prices generally were easy, with trading on a limited scale.

City of Rome 6 1/2s touched a new low record, but later recovered all the loss.

Second Liberty 4 1/2s changed hands in fairly large volume, but other federal government obligations were inactive.

An issue of $12,500,000 Montana

Power debenture 5s is expected on the market this week, proceeds to be used entirely the company's preferred stock.

FURNITURE MEN MEET AT MACON

Macon, Ga., May 17.—(AP)—The Retail Furniture Dealers' Association of Georgia opened its annual two-day convention here Tuesday with welcome addresses from Mayor Wallace Miller and prominent local furniture dealers. Thomas C. Dickson, of Atlanta, state president, presided over the sessions. During the morning reports of the various officers and committees were heard.

The afternoon session will have as its principal feature the talks on advertising from local, state and national viewpoints. Following the speaking an open forum will be held so that the subjects may be generally discussed.

Officers of the national retail furniture dealers are present at the session of the state convention and will deliver a number of important addresses during the two-day session. The national officers to attend are:

LAST SERVICES TODAY FOR ALVIN WELLHOUSE

Funeral services for Alvin Wellhouse, 60, of the Biltmore hotel, retired Atlanta paper merchant, who died early Tuesday morning at a private hospital following an extended illness, will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the chapel of Sam R. Greenberg & Co., on Forrest avenue.

ALVIN WELLHOUSE

The Rabbi David Marx will officiate and the body will be placed in the mausoleum at Crest Lawn cemetery. Pallbearers will be Louis Regenstein, Thomas Peoples, James J. Goodrum, Jr., Edward Bowles, Ed Celf, Charles Adler, Milton Liebman and Harold Hirsch.

He has been in ill health for seven or eight months, but his condition was not considered serious until a few weeks ago when he was taken to a private hospital. He suffered a setback several days ago from which he died early Tuesday morning.

Mr. Wellhouse is survived by a daughter, Mrs. L. J. Steinhilber, of New Jersey; two sisters, Mrs. Max Young and Mrs. Boerne Young, both of New York city; and a brother, Louis Wellhouse.

STRICTER RULES FOR GEORGIA BAR WILL BE SOUGHT

Columbus, Ga., May 17.—(AP)—More rigid regulations regarding admissions to the bar and the practice of law in Georgia will be considered at the annual session of the Georgia Bar association at Tybee June 2-4. Local members of the bar have been advised.

A special committee of the association will submit for approval at the session a proposed bill to be presented to the Georgia legislature this summer, it was said. The bill, if enacted, would create a state bar commission and prescribe its powers and duties, such as to levy a license tax on lawyers; to provide for the payment of the expenses of the state bar; to examine and to define the unlawful practice of law and provide a penalty therefor. The proposed bill also provides for the consolidation of the Georgia Bar association with the state bar.

Entertain Mothers.

Members of the home economics department of Fulton High school will entertain in honor of their mothers at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, according to announcement received here Tuesday. Fulton High P. T. A. will meet at the same time.

Ruth To Waive Visits of Child To Help Mother

BY FRANK DOLAN.
(By-Deed Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
New York, May 17.—Mrs. Ruth Brown Snyder has sacrificed the comfort that visits from her 9-year-old daughter Lorraine would bring her as she awaits her doom in the Sing Sing death house.

She has made it known that although she yearns for a sight of the child who accompanied her on many of her anxious excursions with Henry Judd Gray, she is willing to die without saying goodbye to her, if by doing so Ruth's mother, Mrs. Josephine Brown, will be allowed to retain custody of Lorraine.

This sacrifice on the part of Mrs. Snyder became known Tuesday and her attorney, former Judge Edgar Hazleton, of Jamaica, partly confirmed it. "Warren Schneider is using as part of his material in his fight to gain custody of Lorraine the contaminating influence that visits to the death house will have on her," Mrs. Snyder is quoted as saying, "and rather than give him this weapon, I am not going to ask to see Lorraine."

"I am dead set against it for many reasons," Hazleton said today. "In the first place, I do not think a child should be subjected to the frightful publicity which a visit to her condemned mother would stir up."

Warren Schneider, lawyer of the murdered art editor, Albert Snyder, whom Ruth and Judd Gray slew with a sash while he was in a drunk-en leap, will fight to the last for custody of Lorraine.

Both Hazleton and Samuel Miller, representing Gray, will file appeals that will automatically stay the execution, now scheduled for the week of June 20, until late in the fall, probably December.
